For contributing to the spirit of '68

Mrs. Janette Loy . . . a woman with outstanding qualities . . . unselfish dedication to her profession.

With spirited endeavors she . . . helped produce the Miss Southern Pageant . . . advised the Inter-club Council . . . gave to Southern some of of her original ideas . . . continued working for a better Southern . . . a better spirit.

Leaning on her lectern, as usual, Mrs. Loy gives note to her accelerated classes.

Mrs. Fox and Mrs. Loy outline lesson plans for the next day.

Mrs. Loy helped the Miss Southern contestants with rehersals.

We dedicate this Southerner to Mrs. Loy gave much of herself and her time to Southern as she spent long hours grading papers or working for another student activity.

Adminstration directed Southern's activities

Since the establishment of Southern High School in 1960, Mr. L. M. Adcock has served as principal. With his important position comes the responsibility of keeping in contact with the students, teachers, and all personnel in order to work with them for the betterment of our school.

Various tasks and obligations pertaining to the position of principal include everything from greeting guest from other schools and organizations to enforcing school regulations by some measure of discipline.

Mr. Adcock also represented our school on a county-wide basis through serving on any committee connected with the school.

Assisting Mr. Adcock is Mr. Stockard, the assistant principal, and Mrs. King, the school secretary. Mr. Stockard has been at Southern for six years and Mrs. King, for seven.

Mr. Robert Stockard, Mrs. Esther Rene King

Counselors helped students with problems

Miss Eugenia Church

Mrs. Frances Marlette

Guidance services at Southern involved the total school staff with the homeroom teacher as the key person to maintain close contact with each student throughout high school. All students were influenced by this department, headed by Miss Church and Mrs. Marlette, as they progressed from freshman to seniors. Through their high school career, students were often involved with various programs of this department.

The guidance counselor played a vital part in the student's life. They worked with the students as he grew, changed, and developed new interests and activities. The main objective of the guidance department is to help each student choose and acquire realistic goals.

Debbie and Teci discuss future plans.

Numerous students started their day by visiting the guidance department to get excuses for absences, to find material for future vocations, or to take college applications to be processed. Here they found two of the busiest people around Southern, Mrs. Marlette and Miss Church.

Through English classes,students explored the worlds of Charles Dickens and George Elliot and roamed the seas with Herman Melville. They felt the magic of Shakespeare for the first time as they read Macbeth and Julius Caesar. Poetry became even more meaningful as students read Browning and Shelly.

Students were taught the fundamentals of the English language, in order to read, write and think more clearly.

Mrs. Euliss
Devoted to work...outstanding English Teacher

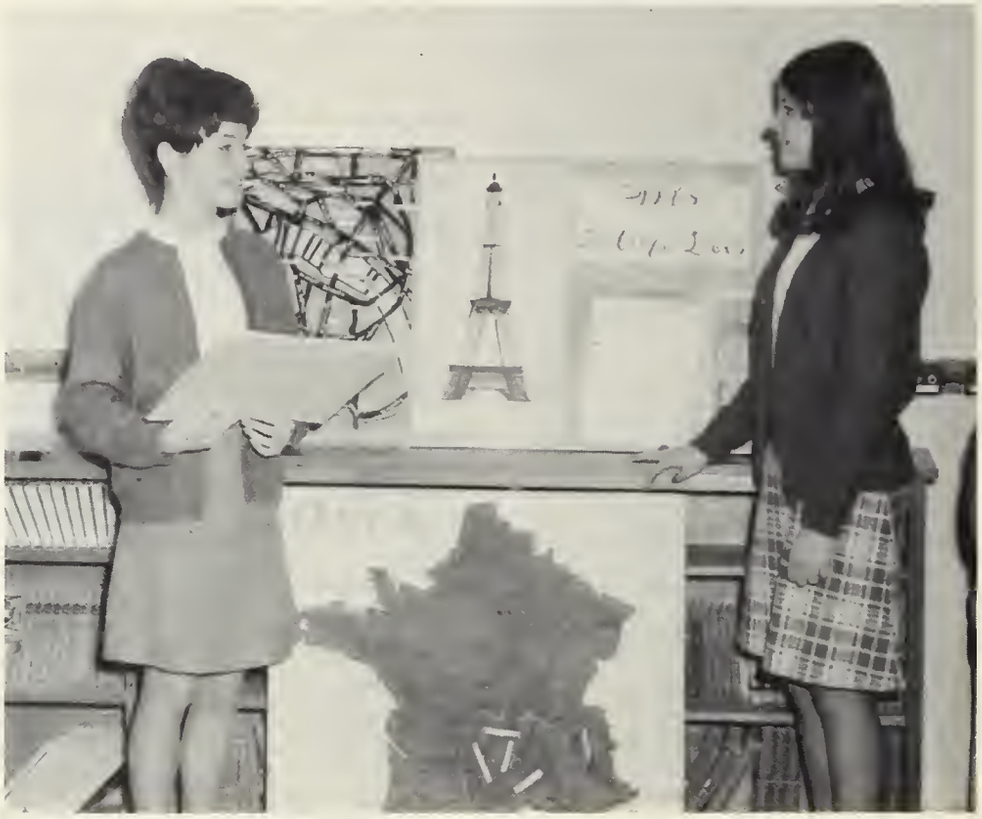
Mrs. Fox
Annual staff advisor—kind and patient

A new language broadened one's scope

Brains began to click as students struggled to understand the different concepts of French, Latin and Spanish. Students learned many times over that certain aspects of a foreign language must be accepted without question.

Each student chose a language according to his own interests, as the curriculum offered four years of French and two years of Spanish or Latin.

Aiding the students in their spirited search for a universal understanding of foreign countries were Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Dismuke, and Miss Marcom.



Margie and Debbie exhibited their French projects.

Miss Marcom

Math continued to perplex students

Mr. Mathis
Excellent teacher.."Wake up, people"

Southern offered math designed for students interested in college preparatory courses and those interested in more general math. College bound students selected from three years of algebra, geometry, and trigonometry. Other students chose either general math or business math. Each had to complete two units of math in order to graduate.

History revealed the past and the present

Through history, students relived the events from man's earliest civilizations to the complex government of the modern world. Students rediscovered new pride in our country through U. S. history and civics, while economics relayed the ideas of our social system. World history brought students through the ages of Hippocrates to Kennedy. Each left class with a better understanding of the world and its problems.

Students explored the unknown through participation

Miss Brown: Dedicated teacher. . Keeps early study hall

Southern's students were taught science through participating and experimenting. They discussed radiation and the atomic theory in physical science. Drawing leaves and carrots, and disecting frogs and earth worms were all a part of learning the make-up of things through biology. Chemistry and physics carried them into the very depths of life. They experimented with gases and learned the intricate patterns of molecules. When they finished the courses they found that they were up to date in the new scientific world.

Mr. Fogleman

Music resounded Southern Spirit

Round notes, flat notes, and sour notes all resounded from Southern's new music department as Miss Cantrell and Mr. Rhodes directed our Glee Club and Band.

Some students found time to exercise their vocal chords in chorus I, while others learned the basics of the musical world in general music and band.

Miss Cantrell reherses with one of her classes before the Glee Club concert

Miss Cantrell
Lovely voice..advises Belles and Sons

Mr. Rhodes
Excellent violinist..versatile musician

Physical education promoted good sportsmanship

Physical education extended to the realm of dancing.

The purpose of physical education is to teach the student the fundamentals of good health and to try to instill in him a sense of good sportsmanship. Therefore, Southern has provided a fitness program by offering physical education and health to all freshmen, and advanced physical education. The instructors of these courses, Mrs. Lockhart, Mr. Stanley and Mr. Clayton, helped Southern provide the country with healthier and more spirited youth for '68.

P. E. boys tested their indurance by climbing ropes.

Mrs. Lockhart-Active... cooperative

Mr. Stanley-Witty... J. V. football coach

Commercial courses produced secretaries

The sounds of clicking typewriter keys were heard from Southern's commercial department as students learned the basics of typing, office practice, or bookkeeping. Many students took advantage of all the department's courses in order to be prepared for a future job in the commercial field. Even on Southern's own campus, students could put to use the knowledge gained through these courses by helping the administration and teachers with needed typing and office work.

Through commercial courses, Libby learned to use the mimeograph machine

Miss Moize

Home economics taught domestic arts

Home economics taught Southern's girls the economic art of sewing.

Home economics was one of the most popular courses offered. To girls it meant learning to sew, cook, decorate a home, and to perform numerous other chores of the American homemaker. They gained experience through learning to cook anything from simple snacks to full-course dinners. A look of pride was the reward for the newly made blouses that they modeled for their friends.

Family living was offered to all seniors who were interested in the family and the role of its members from dating to old age.

All courses help to prepare students for their roles in future families.

Mrs. Stephens
Sewing, cooking, baby booklet.. "Now girls!"

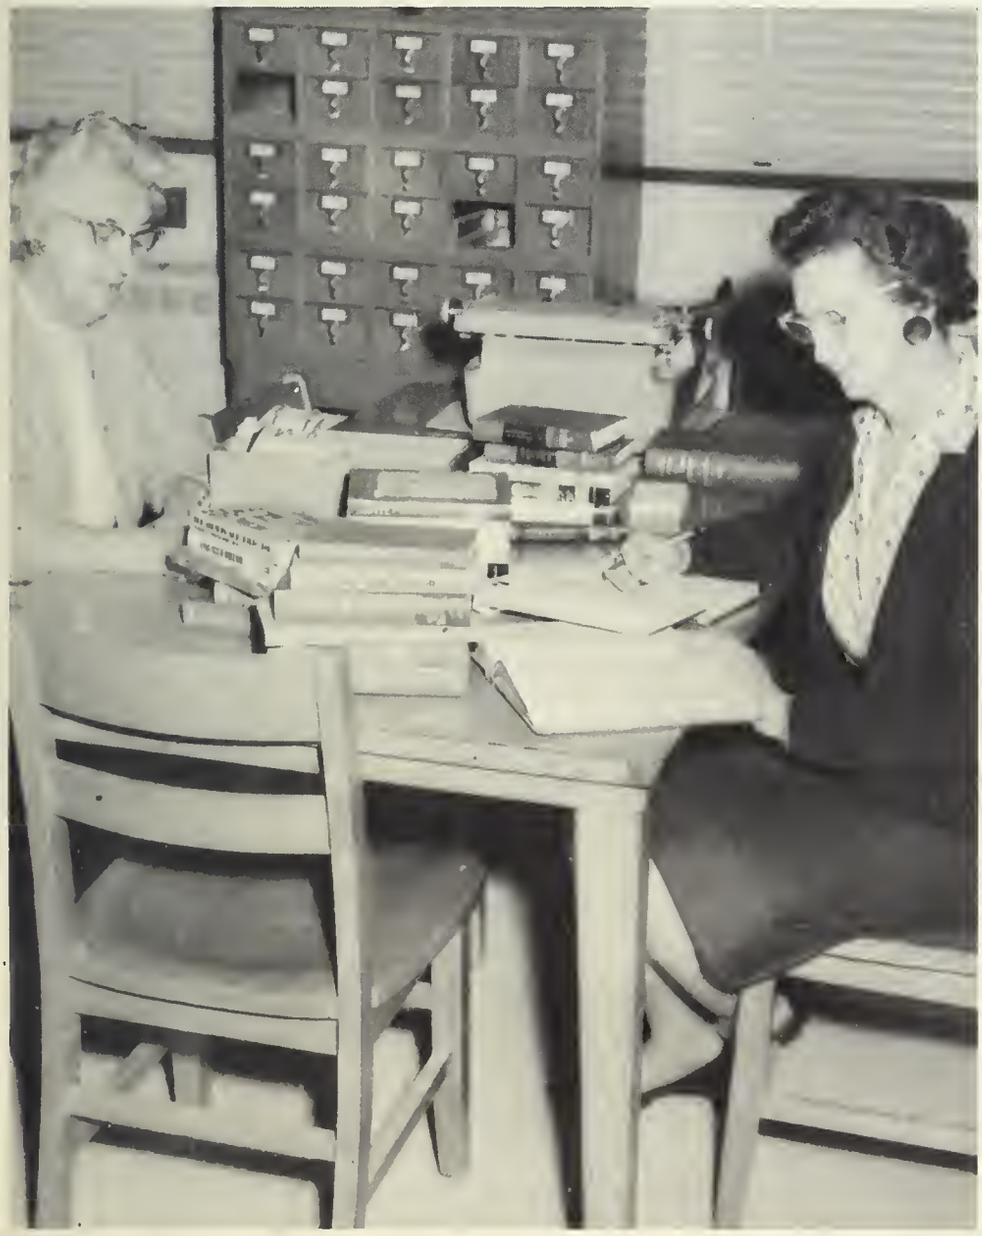
Mrs. Currin
Taught seniors family living.. helped freshmen

Miss McBane
Experienced home ec.teacher .does excellent arts & crafts work

Library - center of learning

Southern's library helped the spirit of learning to grow by compleminting the knowledge found in classrooms. Teachers often brought their classes to the library to find more material for their studies so that the student could have a more rounded education.

The library was many things to Southern students. To some it was a place to find a good book to read, to others the library was a source of information for term papers, but to most, it was a shelter from hectic school life.



Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. Patton prepared books for check-out.

Mrs. Louise Henderson
Creative...helpful to all students

Students learned agricultural skills

Horticulture girls examined plant specimens and learned a little more in the world of plants.

Agriculture is designed to give students a rounded education in agriculture occupations and sciences. The student used newly acquired skills in carpentry, farming, and various other chores. These skills can be carried into careers of teaching, farming, or agriculture agents. Girls, also, took advantage of agriculture course by taking horticulture to learn more about plant life.

Working hard to build everything from benches for the new lobby to scenery for a play, Mr. Wilson and the agriculture boys have added much to the spirit of '68.

Mr. Wilson
Dedicated to his work..most outstanding man

Mr. Honeycutt
Many laughs..but a fine teacher

Mr. Teachy
Ready to lend a hand..helped create future farmers

Mr. Wilson and the Ag. boys contributed to Southern's spirit by working hard all year.

Students praticed safety

With mounting traffic accidents and fatalities, the people of the United States have realized that education in the field of driving is becoming more and more necessary. Southern High School has already begun classes in driver's education with our competent instructors, Mr. Stanley, Mr. Stockard, and Mr. Clayton. They taught the regulations of highway safety in the classroom and later students learned to handle the car. Statistics have shown that driver's education has reduced the rate of traffic accidents.

Mac returned "safely" after road training

Mr. Clayton
Demanding coach..good sense of humor

Students practiced hand signals

Valuable Aids to Southern

Starting early in the morning, the cafeteria staff at Southern began to prepare a well-balanced lunch for hungry students and teachers.

While Mrs. Howerton and her staff prepared lunches, Southern's grounds and hallways were well-kept by our custodial staff.

First row: B. Isley, M. Schronce, T. Kimble, J. Fuller, D. Payne, A. Patton, E. Coble, S. Howerton. Second row: H. Ketner, H. White, A. Stone, G. Vincent, R. Pateat, H. White.

One of Hattie's regular jobs is to keep every room neat and clean.

Student Life

Activities influencing students lives . . . bringing about social and intellectual growth . . . resulting in the discovery of our true spirit through . . .

Originating

We remember that the spirit of fun played a major role as each student expressed himself as an individual through drama, originality, and competition. During the course of the year, the need for cooperation grew and brought us together as a group. Each person gained his place among the crowd, reaped the satisfaction of contributing his part, and felt a sense of belonging. Finally, we found within ourselves the spirit of unity.

SECOND PERIOD FOX presented David Patterson in "Sinners in the Hands of an Angry God."

WOULD YOU BELIEVE-a ball game?

BABY FACE FINGERS alias Philip Griffin participated in Latin Slave Day.

EVERYONE GROOVED to the rhythm at the homecoming dance.

Working Together

Times we enjoyed most were occasions when we could relax and have fun in our spare time. At the ball games and pep rallies, we met the challenge of displaying our best school spirit by supporting our team. Students accepted the task of making our clubs more active and received unlimited reward.

A BONFIRE AND A PEP RALLY helped to boost the school spirit of the students.

SOUTHERN'S MUSCLE-BOUND POWDER-PUFF BEAUTIES stampeded onward to victory.

CAROL FOX LEARNED the satisfaction of teaching some future leaders of America.

Pierced ears were a common sight at Southern.

Lockets, pendant watches, and monogrammed pins were some of the more frequently worn jewelry.

the world around.

Just as it is human nature to conform, students at Southern adhered to the numerous fad crazes of the year. Textured hose, op-art dresses, and the sock-less look became a familiar sight to every student.

Girls followed the trends with pierced ears, falls, necklace watches, and the square-toe look in shoes. Most of the boys were not as ardent in following the popular trends, but such features as monogrammed belts and pull-over V-neck sweaters found their place among our Southern gentlemen.

By joining in the swing of the fad world, we discovered a universal spirit of togetherness.

Fishnet stockings and miniskirts aided in keeping the boys awake during class.

A new idea in hairstyle was the wearing of "falls".

Pat Phillips models a stylish three-quarter coat.

Recognizing character

Within the academic world, Southern offered many opportunities for character recognition. Numerous awards were presented for various areas of study. Among some of the most important ones were the D. A. R. award, membership in the I. Q. Bowl, and semi-finalist in the National Merit Scholarship Contest. Sharing the gains of one another, we learned to value our spirit of individualism.

Sue Albright received the D. A. R. Good Citizens Award.

Rebecca Cheek became a National Merit Scholarship semi-finalist.

Interact Club performed useful services

By obtaining membership in the Interact Club, yound men met the challenge to work together in a world of fellowship dedicated to service and universal understanding.

Some of the major aims and goals of the club included development of constructive leadership, the creation of an awareness of the importance of home and family, and the opening of avenues of personal and group action leading to the advancement of international understanding and good will toward all people.

Mr. Stockard served as advisor of the Interact Club.

Confederettes perform at ballgames

An active year demanded the performance of the Confederettes to add to school spirit and to promote more interest during half time.

Among their various activities were performing at home football and basketball games, marching in parades, and accompanying the band to Band Day at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Mrs. Jarvis and Mrs. Lockhart advised the group. Captain, Linda Cashwell and co-captain, Sue Richardson were selected by the girls according to their leadership abilities.

Majorettes step high

In the spring of each year, some of the hardest working girls at Southern try out for majorette. Other majorettes, the band director, and a group of teachers judge the girls on the basis of their routines and abilities.

With these girls lies the responsibility of heading the band at home football games during halftime, marching in numerous parades, and performing at any other outside functions involving the marching band. This year Sue Albright led the girls as head majorette.

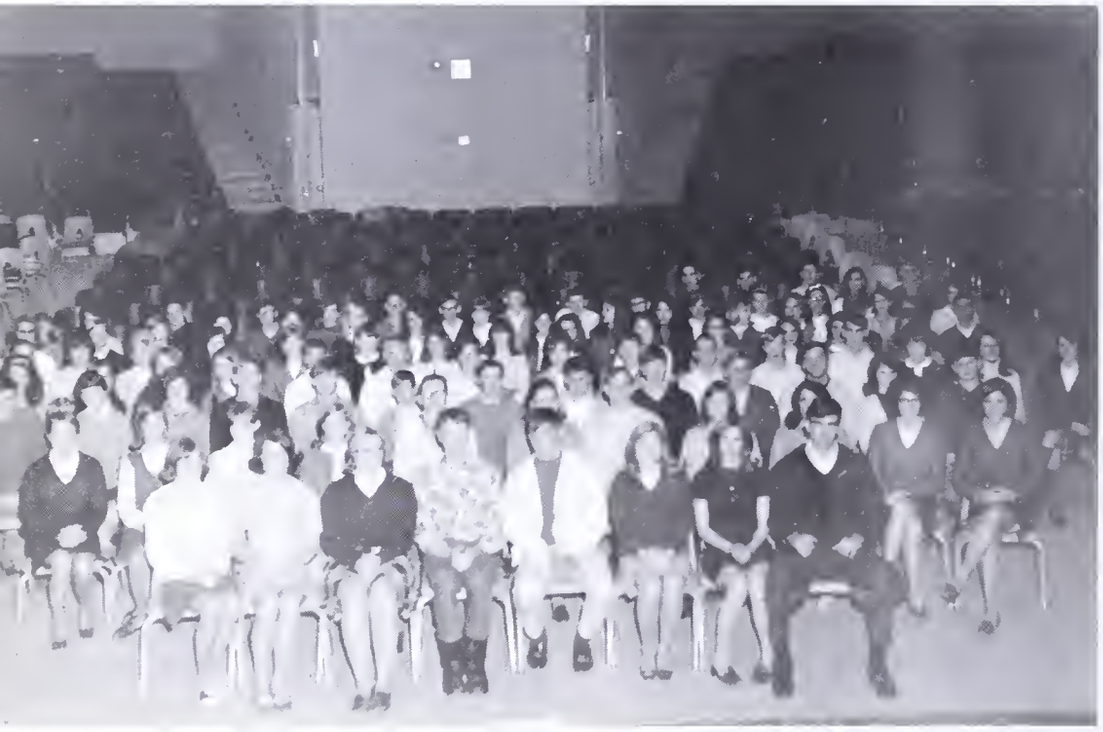
Pep Club yelled "Go Southern!"

Faithful members of the Pep Club supplied pep and spirit in order to promote better school spirit and to give our athletes the support and confidence they deserve. Members encouraged the student body to set an example of good sportsmanship at all times.

Besides attending the regular ball games, the Pep Club provided refreshments for football players, sold badges and made posters to promote school spirit, and for the first time sold Southern pennants.

The Pep Club is advised by Miss Moize and any student at Southern is eligible for membership.



Randy Wilson, Treasurer; Cheryl Isley, Secretary; Julie Euliss, Vice President; Dona Parker, President.

The Pep Club boasted of over two hundred active members.

Monogram Club

Students who excelled in high school athletics or contributed to the athletic department in some other way took pride in being members of the Monogram Club. Membership also required a letter in any sport.

The purpose of the club was to promote good sportmanship and to recognize achievement in the field of athletics. Mr. Clayton, Director of Athletics, advised the club.

Dramatics Club presented "No Boys Allowed"

The purpose of the Dramatics Club is to promote each member's confidence in himself as a performer and to stimulate interest in drama.

Activities this year included a workshop sponsored by the Elon Dramatics Department. Aslo included on this year's agenda was the play "John Brown's Body" which was presented by the National Repertoire Theater on the campus of UNC-G.

Tryouts were held for the comedy "No Boys Allowed" and a cast of fourteen was chosen. Practice for the play was held each afternoon in the auditorium.

Advisor for the Dramatics Club was Mrs. Finger.

Anyone interested in acting or drama may join.

Steve Walker, President; Tecie Pike, Secretary; Dan Stafford, Vice President; Jeff McPherson, Treasurer.

carnival and school spirit week

A carnival was sponsored by the student council to raise money to furnish the student lounge.

The Executive Committee is made up of the student council officers, the president of each class, the head cheerleader, and the editor of the annual and newspaper.

Representatives to the student council are chosen at the beginning of every year by the members of their homeroom. These students serve as the link between the student council and student body. Their job is to bring up any question or problem before the student council and report the details of each meeting back to their homeroom.

Walker Leads Student Body

Mr. Wilson, Advisor to the Student Council and Steve Walker, President of the Student Council.

Under the leadership of Steve Walker, the Student Council had a very profitable year. Major projects of the council included sponsoring a carnival, White Christmas, School Spirit Week, and the Miss Southern Pageant. Representatives and students collected stamps to purchase ping-pong tables to go in the lobby, and a juke box was acquired for use during lunch period.

In addition to being President of Student Council, Steve held other important positions such as the Assistant Editor of the So-Hi News, co-chief marshal, Lt. Governor ror zone 2 of the North Carolina Junior Civitans and membership in numerous clubs at school.

Steve has always taken an active interest in athletic as well as academic activities, and he excels in golf.

For the students' enjoyment a juke box was placed in the lobby by the Student Council.

Civinettes sold ham biscuits

The Civinettes, under the guiding hand of Miss Sharpe, carried out a heavy schedule. Their time was devoted to many projects, such as sponsoring a needy family at Thanksgiving and sending clothes to our soldiers in Viet Nam.

Sponsored by the Senior Civitan Club of Alamance, the Civinettes are charged with the responsibility of building good citizenship and character. To become a member one must maintain an average of eighty-five and have acceptable conduct and character. She must be sponsored by a present member and voted upon by the entire club.

French Club

Parlez-vous francais? No, most people do not speak French, but one group of students at Southern decided to join the French Club for this reason. By participating in this club, the students hope to create a better understanding of the French people and their customs through the leadership of Mrs. Nichols.

In order for a student to be eligible for membership in the club, he must be a student enrolled in French with an eighty-five average and acceptable conduct.

Each year an award is presented to the best French Student.

Graduation is not the end —

At the end of the year, students once again had to say good-bye. For many it was only a summer vacation to be spent before they would return in the fall. But, for the graduating class it meant the leaving of a world which had been second only to their home life for the past four years. Memories tood the place of action as they remembered the friendships gained, the knowledge learned, and the personal goals attained.

1968 Homecoming Queen

Four girls, Julie Euliss, Tecie Pike, Ann Thomas, and Aline Sulecki, were nominated by the football team to compete for the title of Homecoming Queen for 1968. By popular vote of the student body, Aline Sulecki received the coveted title of Homecoming Queen.

Aline, a member of Beta, Pep, Monogram, Future Teachers Club and also a varsity cheerleader, plans to train as an airline stewardess after graduation.

Cheerleaders Promote Spirit

School spirit was personified by our enthusiastic and vivacious cheerleaders. Through victory and defeat, their unfailing support of our teams inspired the players to do their best to display teamwork. Pep rallies played an important part in uniting the student body by boosting school spirit. Colorful signs and bulletin boards made by the cheerleaders publicized approaching games, and were highlighted by the players' tearing through a Confederate flag. The six senior and five junior Confed cheerleaders were led by Gloria Beatty.

Who says we're not number one? If our team cannot be number one in the conference, it certainly should be given the credit for the hard work and determination which has been displayed this year. The summer season means rest and relaxation for most students but when the month of August rolls around you can be sure there is plenty in store for the upcoming Confeds. To get back in shape for the season, the boys do calesthentics, run about five hundred yards per day and listen to the coaches advise and sometimes reprimand a weary player. All this hard work pays off when the games begin and the Confeds put their ability and knowledge together as a team. Victory brings happiness and a feeling of accomplishment; defeat brings disappointment, disillusionment, but yet a strong determination to win the next game.

As for our coaches, they spend a great deal of their so-called "leisure" time trying to figure out plays and strategy which hopefully will be successful. The student body plays an important part in the victory or defeat of a team. Thrill over victory and encouragement at defeat is an outstanding quality of Confed spectators. A team who does its best is a winner!

Seniors Provide Leadership

Our Southern Confeds finished their season with a record of five and five. Leading the Confeds were their tri-captains, Randy Wilson, Danny Minor, and Steve Franklin. Our winning season was achieved by the cooperation and teamwork of the boys. The spirit of the spectators served to inspire the boys to put forth their best efforts. Victory promoted enthusiasm, yet defeat portrayed the good sportsmanship and spirit of the Confeds. Coaches Hanford, Clayton, and Hopkins advised, encouraged, and instructed the team, to help make it the success and pride of Southern High School.

Backs and linemen overwhelm strong opposition

The Confed backfield once again restored our faith in the football team as they, spearheaded by Wilson, Minor, Guthrie, and Fisher, romped for yardage against some of the most devastating defensive lines in the three-A conference. With record-breaking yardage, the Confed backs were surpassed by few in yards gained rushing and were rated third in total yardage gained.

Playing a major part in the outcome of any game is the play of the line. Often the value of a good line is overlooked, for it is up front where the game is won or lost. On the all-conference team were two Southern linemen, Steve Franklin and Terry Johnson. These boys led the fine defensive play. However, not attaining all-conference mention, others were also outstanding additions to the Confed lineup.

Our Junior Varsity cheerleaders deserve ample recognition for their enthusiasm in promoting school spirit. Colorful posters foretell upcoming games and promote general student body interest. Selling football programs helps aid in the financial field and also provide spectators with a knowledge of the players. The fine leadership of the J. V. chief, Connie Gibson, along with the full cooperation of the squad has proved to be an outstanding asset to the spirit of Southern High.

Confed

The dismissal bell at three o' clock is merely the beginning of the day for the Southern High basketball player. From this time until four thirty, he tried to make peace with his soul before trying to face the loud but constructive criticism of Coach Clayton. From four thirty to six thirty, the players are glued to the hardwood in an effort to improve their skills and sharpen their shooting eyes. Failure to live up to the coache's expectations results in a little running exercise, known affectionately by the players as "suicides". Upon completion of this exercise, the players are more than ready to head for the showers.

Effort has certainly been the outstanding characteristic of the sixty-eight Confed basketball team. Despite the disappointment of defeat, students and spectators turned out to spur the team on. Led by co-captains Andrew and White, the Confeds provided excellent competition for their opponents. Height and speed were contributing factors to the fine teamwork and endeavor, providing good defense and rebounding power. Hard practice, good sportsmanship, and a strong will to succeed are the makings of a truly memorable Confed basketball team.

Junior Varsity Basketball

Junior Varsity Confeds revealed great strength and athletic achievement in the field of basketball. Coach Hanford has spent long hours after school advising and instructing the boys in planned strategy and teamwork. Cooperation and the will to win have been the controlling factors in the outstanding performance of the junior athletes.

Baseball Players strive for perfection

Although losing seven lettermen, Southern should again field a strong baseball team. Most of the returning players have much experience and can play different positions depending on the decision of the coach. The schedule again will prove tough as Southern plays some of the top teams in the state. The Confeds early games should make or break the season. Twelve lettermen return this year to lead Southern's baseball fortunes. The battery combination will be formed by catchers, Robbie Stout and Frank Stanford and pitchers, Terry Johnson and Christy Teague. Randy Wilson, Bobby Guthrie, Mike Allen, Mark Jones, and Jimmy Franklin spark the infield. Outfielders will be led by Gary Durham, Tony Greeson, and Brent Isley. Leading hitters should be Mike Allen, Bobby Guthrie, and Robbie Stout.

Confederate "sluggers"

The baseball players worked long and hard to achieve success. Although a newcomer to the field, Coach Hanford inspired the boys to do their best and work their hardest. This year's team was a relatively experienced one and they therefore looked forward to many victories. Pitching, catching, fielding, and batting were but a few of the more strenuous preparations for the stiff competition which the three-A conference offered.

Confeds excel in running ability

Boone, Isley, Harding, and Ashley.

Skill, strength, and great physical stamina are necessary qualities for a successful track team. Coach Hanford directs these boys, but they must have the will for victory. Several previous members of the team are on the team this year, providing leadership and experience.

He's over the hurdle!

Ashley prepares to vault.

Harding and Isley prepare for run.

Golfers compete successfully

Golf has always been a sport in which the Confed golfers have proven a great success. Steve Walker, a former winner of a state title, has led these boys in a memorable season. Steady nerves, a strong arm, and keen eyes all go into the making of a good golfer. Hours of practice have proven worthwhile for the Confeds this season. Coach Clayton has spent much time in preparing these boys for a difficult series of exciting matches.

Coach Sonny Clayton

Walker prepares for upcoming match.

Tennis — sport of speed and agility

Boley and Andrew display Confed teamwork.

Strength, agility, and vigorous body movement are necessary requirements for a successful tennis player. Led by Roger Boley and Brodie Andrew, the Confed tennis team has provided tough competition for their opponents. The fine mental and physical capabilities along with hours of "back-breaking" practice, are all responsible factors leading to success. Coach Jim Sipe, after a long day in the classroom, devoted hours after achool in advising and instructing the fellows in tactics and procedure. As there are no new members on the team, these boys all have the definite advantage of a year's experience in high school competition, which could account for the ease and assurance with which they play. All these qualities and facts combine to make an outstanding example of Confederate determination, ambition and spirit.

Coach Jim Sipe

Freshmen Discover Southern

In the fall of 1967, the largest group of freshmen Southern has ever had stood at the threshold of the unknown. For many frantic weeks, they carried maps of the school around and occasionally still walked into the wrong class. But the embarrassment and spirit of loneliness soon turned into shared moments of laughter and common bonds of friendships. The vastness of Southern as it had appeared to them on that first day soon dwindled and they were at home among their teachers and friends. When they settled down to business, time seemed to pass quickly and only the memories of the past year—physical education, J. V. ballgames, endless lunch lines -remained in their minds to be remembered forever.

Sophomores look forward to being

With one year of their high school education behind them, the sophomores tackled their courses during the coming year and were soon in the swing of things. That old familiar word BIOLOGY seemed to creep into everyone's schedule as they became involved in the study of leaves, frogs, amoebae, and even man!

In the spring, all thoughts turned toward planning a sophomore party in hopes that it would be one of the best ones yet.

As the year drew to a close, the sophomores came to the realization that Southern no longer held any strangeness, but was home to them.

Junior spur enthuiasm

At the beginning of the 1967-68 school year, the juniors were faced with a tight schedule. Various activities which demanded much of their time included PSAT tests and U. S. History courses involving some students in an experimental television class.

Early in the year juniors were fitted for class rings and then began the long wait for their arrival. With the spring semester came the plans for the Junior-Senior prom requiring much hard work by the class officers and their committees, but the appreciation shown by the seniors and teachers made it worth all of their efforts.

As the year came to a close, the juniors realized that only one more year would bring them to their goal of achieving a high school education.

The Senior Class

Faced with one of the major steps in life, the seniors began their final year at Southern. Involved more than ever in school activities, they accepted the task of leading the student body.

Many decisions had to be made about their future in choosing a vocation and selecting the college which would give them the best background for their careers. Many seniors took the Scholastic Aptitude, Test and patiently awaited for their scores.

In the fall one senior girl was selected for Homecoming Queen and later in the year, other girls were given an opportunity to participate in the Miss Southern Pageant. Remembered as one of the biggest highlights of the year was the Junior-Senior Prom held in the late spring.

As the year came to an end, the seniors recalled their four years at Southern—the many friendships made, the great times shared with one another, and most of all, a spirit of accomplishment.

Pat,
It has been fun
having you in first and 3rd period. You are a very cute and sweet girl. Good luck to you and Hoyle always. You will probably end up getting married because Hoyle can't live without you and I know you couldn't do without him. So when you all get married invite me to the wedding. Good luck always.

Pride in product and Company on the part of management and employees working together in a sense of friendly cooperation, combined with the interest and support of the people in the community has been the key to our growth. This has brought us from the role of distributor in 1925, manufacturer in 1937 with only one plant and one product, to the position of being one of the world's largest hosiery producers in 1968. Today we make hosiery and related products for men, women, and children under world famous brand names. Our plants are located in the cities shown on the map. We are pleased to bring you this story of progress, because it started in this area.

Pat,
We have had so much fun this year in typing and Study hall. I'll never forget the night we went skating, boy did we have fun, even if it did hurt me. Thanks for letting me ride home with you and Hoyle in the afternoons, and thanks for getting me there safely. I would like to wish you and Hoyle the best of luck in the future and may God bless you both. May I in your Garden of Memories be a "forget-me-not."

Pat,

You are one of my best friends this year, but I hope we don't get separated next year. You are one of the cutest and sweetest girls I know and I wish you and Hayle the best of luck in the future. I sure have had alot of fun with you in World History and English classes. Have fun this summer and don't do anything I wouldn't do. Stay sweet and I hope I get to see you next year.

Love Ya
Sandy

Pat,

It's been great getting to know you this year in Biology. You are a very nice girl. I hope we'll have some classes together next year too. Perhaps we'll see each other this summer at McDonalds or up town. Best wishes and God bless and keep you.

Your friend,
Nancy Burton

Pat,

Best of luck in the future to you & yours. We have really had some nice times together. I guess I'll never forget them. I hope to see you this summer. Also, I hope you and Hoyle remain in love just like you are now. Best of luck in the future! "May God Bless"

Pat,

We have all really had one blast of a time in history this year, haven't we? We hope to be in some classes together next year. Then when we're Juniors, we can have our own class rings and can then wear 2. Ha! Best wishes to a really sweet girl. May God Bless!

Pat,

I have not really known you very long, but I have been around long enough to know that you are a swell girl and Hoyle is so very lucky to have a sweet, nice, and cute girl like you with a great personality. I wish I had been in some of your classes this year but better luck next year. Maybe we will be in Graham High School I sure hope not, I think I will move with somebody if I have to go ~~to~~ to Graham. Just think all of our friends like Janie, Judy and a whole lot of others will still be at Southern. Pat I hope you and Hoyle the very very best of luck in the future and I know both of you will be very happy Together.
